A REALLY NEAT STORY...MUST READ

“Webs and Walls”

During World War II, a young soldier became separated from his unit on a Pacific Island. Alone in the jungle, he could hear enemy soldiers coming in his direction. Scrambling for cover, he found his way up a high ridge to several small caves in the rock and quickly crawled inside.

Although safe for the moment, he realized that once the enemy soldiers looking for him swept up the ridge, they would quickly search all the caves and he would be killed. As he waited, he prayed, “Lord, protect me!”

When he looked up from his despairing plea for help, he saw a spider beginning to weave its web at the entrance of the cave. As he watched, the delicate threads being slowly drawn across the mouth of the cave, the young soldier pondered its irony. He thought to himself, “God really does have a sense of humor. I asked God for protection and He sent me a spider instead. I needed a stone wall and God sent a spider. How can a spider save me?”

Soon he heard the sound of his enemies, who were now scouring the area looking for those in hiding. One soldier with a gun slowly walked up to the cave’s entrance. As the young man crouched in the darkness, he felt his heart pounding wildly out of control. As the enemy moved cautiously forward to enter the cave, he came upon the spider’s web, which by now was completely strung across the opening. He backed away and called out to a comrade, “There can’t be anyone in here. They would have had to break this spider’s web to enter the cave. Let’s move on.” God works in mysterious ways....

FUNNY JOKE

When NASA first started sending up astronauts, they quickly discovered that ballpoint pens would not work in zero gravity. To combat the problem, NASA scientists spent a decade and $12 million dollars to develop a pen that writes in zero gravity, upside down, underwater, on almost any surface including glass and at temperatures ranging from below freezing to 300 degrees.

When this amazing pen story was told to the third graders at St. Mary School, one student blurted out, “Why didn’t they just use a pencil?”
